REPORT HIGHLIGHTS

Although most regions across the country saw modest declines in dollar volumes in March, YTD revenues for all regions remain higher than in 2021 with National YTD revenues +9.7% over 2021.

British Columbia was the lone exception in March with dollar volumes remaining flat over March 2021. When looking at the Weather Report for the region, that comes as no surprise as operators rated weather in March 2022 as below average at 4.0 for the month. Ontario saw the largest drop in revenues in March 2022 at -30.6%. March 2022 weather was much cooler and wetter than in March 2021. As well, it is important to note that when comparing to March 2021; the province posted an increase of more than 300% in revenues compared to 2020 for that same period.
